

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES

1. Law students will be registering for the spring semester via the University CheckMarq registration system on Wednesday, November 16th through Friday, November 18th. The information contained in this packet will explain the process as it relates to the Law School.
2. In the packet of materials you should find:
 - A schedule of classes for the spring semester. Please note that room assignments will be made after registration
 - A tentative exam schedule for the spring semester
 - The 2016-2017 academic calendar
 - A list of course prerequisites
 - A list of courses required for graduation
 - Information on the spring semester courses that will satisfy the post 1L perspectives, public law, and process elective requirements
 - Information on all courses that will be offered during the Spring Semester (descriptions of both elective and required courses are included)
 - A tentative list of classes for 2017-2018.
3. You may access your registration appointment time through the CheckMarq portal. If you are having trouble accessing CheckMarq, please contact the ITS Help Desk at 414-288-7799. Instructions for using CheckMarq are available through the CheckMarq portal.
4. Please note: students who entered prior to the fall of 2016 (and transfer and visiting students who entered in fall 2016) must register via CheckMarq between Wednesday, November 16th and Friday, November 18th. You may register any time after your appointment time.
5. First-year students who began in the fall of 2016 do not need to register. The law school will handle this for you. You may view your schedule on CheckMarq the week of November 28th. First year sections are assigned and cannot be changed.
6. Enrollment limits for courses are as follows:

Perspectives courses	50
The Law Governing Lawyers	45
Green Bay Prison Initiative	10
Bar Exam Writing	20
Media Law	30
Starting & Managing a Law Practice	30
All other general enrollment courses	70
Seminars	16
Workshop – Business Planning	30
Workshop – Advanced Brief Writing	12
Workshop – Trial Advocacy 2	12
All other workshops	16
Advanced Legal Research courses	20

CheckMarq will automatically close a course once the enrollment limit is reached. Third-year students (those with 54 or more credits) have earlier registration times than those with 53 or fewer credits.

Students who are interested in taking limited enrollment courses such as seminars, workshops, and advanced legal research courses should register as soon after their appointment time as possible. The longer you wait, the greater the likelihood that a specific course may be closed.

7. Students who are closed out of courses may complete the waiting list form available on the website (<http://law.marquette.edu/current-students/student-services-forms>) and in Room 238 and submit it to Dean Thomson, either electronically or in Room 238. The deadline for submission is noon on Monday, November 21st. Deans Oldfather and Thomson will develop waiting lists based on the number of credits a student has earned to date. Waiting lists will be posted on the Law School website and students will be notified via their Marquette e-mail if a space becomes available. Do not attempt to use the waiting list function in CheckMarq.
8. Also note Section 700 of the Law School Academic Regulations concerning dropping and adding courses.
9. If you plan to take Directed Research or Graduate Assistant during the spring semester, please complete the appropriate form (available on the website <http://law.marquette.edu/current-students/student-services-forms> or in the filing cabinet in Room 238) and send it to Dean Thomson.

COURSE TITLE: COMMUNITY PROSECUTION

COURSE #: 7152 701

PROFESSORS: Altenburg, Ladwig and Wesson

DESCRIPTION: In this course, students will examine the shift of American prosecutors away from a response-driven model to an innovative and nationally recognized proactive model focused on preventing crime and increasing quality of life. Prosecutors across the United States are embracing the idea that communities are the central institution for crime prevention, and the success or failure of prosecutors, police, schools, and families are dependent on that community foundation. Community Prosecutors are now asked to use their legal knowledge in the field with police officers, use their communication skills to reach out to community members, use their courtroom and trial skills to prosecute the most violent criminals, and use their creativity to fashion appropriate alternatives to traditional prosecutions.

COURSE TITLE: CONSTITUTIONAL LAW 2: SPEECH AND EQUALITY COURSE #: 7135 101
PROFESSOR: Rofes
DESCRIPTION: Focus on the principal individual rights protections of the United States Constitution: Equal protection, including race and sex discrimination and the emerging conflict over "reverse" discrimination; freedom of expression, including the law of subversive advocacy, defamation, obscenity, and commercial speech; and the problem of state action, the relationship between the Constitution and private discrimination.
CREDITS: 3
PREREQUISITES: None
COURSE STATUS: Open Enrollment. Satisfies the Law School public law requirement
METHOD(S) OF EVALUATION: In-class examination portion of the during the final examination period, take-home portion of the final examination distributed in the vicinity of 4/17/17 and due in the vicinity of 5/6/17, class participation, attendance, contribution to the learning of others
FACULTY COMMENTS: This course picks up where the individual rights material of the required 1L course in constitutional law leaves off, moving beyond the due process protections of the fifth and fourteenth amendments to explore the equal protection and free expression guarantees, guarantees that have garnered especially substantial attention from the nation's highest court during the past six decades. In between our consideration of equal protection and free expression we will briefly examine another aspect of the constitutional law of individual liberties: the so-called state action requirement, which serves to remind that the principal individual rights protections of the national constitution (including but not limited to equal protection and free expression) are rooted in an effort to constrain the exercise of government power rather than the exercise of private power, a fact with which courts have struggled mightily as the line between government action and private action has become increasingly blurred. We will pause on multiple occasions throughout the course to explore ways in which Wisconsin law and Wisconsin courts specifically grapple with these matters.

As indicated above, the course will feature a two-part examination – one part of the “in-class” variety, one part of the “take-home” variety – as its principal but not exclusive evaluative tool.

The final grade received by each student will be shaped by four factors: (1) the quality of performance on the examination; (2) the quality of performance on any other writing exercise; (3) attendance; and (4) the quality of in-class contribution to the learning of others.

COURSE TITLE: CRIME AND PUNISHMENT IN AMERICA SINCE 1933 COURSE #: 7463 101

PROFESSOR: O'Hear
DESCRIPTION: With the end of Prohibition in 1933, the American criminal-justice system entered an extended period of liberalization and greater protection of individual liberties. However, rising crime rates in the 1960s and 1970s fueled a backlash that slowed or reversed many of the mid-century reform trends. Today, many commentators believe that the era of backlash is over, but national incarceration rates remain near their all-time highs. In exploring this history, the course will focus particularly on the changing role of the federal courts in superintending state criminal-justice systems, persistent racial tensions relating to urban policing, the rise and fall (and rise?) of the rehabilitative ideal in corrections, the War on Drugs, efforts to guide or constrain judicial sentencing discretion, the advent of victims' rights, and trends in crime and incarceration rates.

COURSE TITLE: TRIAL ADVOCACY 2 COURSE #: 7852 101
PROFESSOR: Ratzel and Trecek
DESCRIPTION: This course builds on the basic skills introduced in Trial Advocacy 1 and also focuses on jury selection, the use of demonstrative exhibits, and expert testimony.
CREDITS: 3
PREREQUISITES: Trial Advocacy 1
COURSE STATUS: Workshop
METHOD(S) OF EVALUATION: Class presentations, class participation. See faculty comments:
FACULTY COMMENTS: The professors run this class as a true workshop. There are weekly opportunities for students to participate in and conduct every aspect of a jury trial, including jury selection, opening statement, direct and cross examination, admitting exhibits into evidence and closing statements. The participatory vignettes are done in front of the other students who are allowed to provide their observations & the professors provide their constructive criticism as well. This class is meant to be extremely practical in its focus & provides the necessary knowledge & experience so that, after taking this class, the students will feel comfortable trying their first case as a practicing attorney. The final examination is a trial which is typically scheduled the week before finals. The trial typically lasts approximately 6 hours.
