

The Colors of My Neighborhood

Red, orange, brown, black, blue, white, purple, and yellow are the colors of my neighborhood. It's like a rainbow. People of many colors and many different religions live in my neighborhood. That's why there are foods of many colors and languages of many colors.

The foods in my neighborhood give off different aromas. You can always smell food cooking, but it's not always the same thing. One day you might smell chicken and rice from China, and the next day you might smell an American BBQ. Sometimes you can even see people having a picnic outside.

In my neighborhood the sounds of Russian, Chinese, Hindi, Tamil, English, African, and Mexican being spoken muffle the roar of the highway. Even loud trucks can't match hearing all of these languages around me. Those languages have opened up my mind to a lot of new cultures.

Everyone in my neighborhood tries to keep it clean. You will rarely see litter on the ground because there is a trashcan at every corner. We also plant trees and flowers to maintain the beautiful colors of our neighborhood.

As you can probably tell by now I live in a very diverse neighborhood. I can hear diversity, I can smell diversity, I can even taste diversity. With all of these colors surrounding me, I can feel diversity in my neighborhood everyday.
