

99TH PERCENTILE

THE MARQUETTE LAW SCHOOL POLL PLAYS IN A TOUGH LEAGUE.

Its conference schedule involves a battleground state with a pivotal part in the electoral college, hard-fought elections, close results, and constant turns in the national spotlight.

In this big league, the Marquette Law School Poll has excelled. The poll was rated by FiveThirtyEight.com this year as no. 5 in accuracy among 517 polls nationwide. That's the 99th percentile.

The poll is about more than elections. In 74 statewide polls since 2012, we've asked more than 1,300 questions about policies, performance, impressions of leaders, civic engagement, and more. Since 2019, the poll has had a breakout performance, conducting 13 nationwide surveys shedding light on public understanding and opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Polling is not a sport, and there is no national championship game. So, in a nod to our National Sports Law Institute, let's just say this:

WE'RE PROUD TO ASSERT THE NAME, IMAGE, AND LIKENESS RIGHTS TO THE MARQUETTE LAW SCHOOL POLL.
