Stadium: University of Phoenix Stadium

Date Built: 2006

Facility Cost ($/Mil): $455

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 76%

Facility Financing: The Arizona Sports & Tourism Authority contributed $300.4 million, most of which came from a 1% hotel/motel tax, a 3.25% car rental tax, and a stadium-related sales tax. The Arizona Cardinals contributed $145.4 million. Glendale contributed $9.9 million. The Cardinals purchased the land for the stadium for $18.5 million.

Facility Website

Twitter: @UOPXStadium

NAMING RIGHTS: The University of Phoenix, Inc., a subsidiary of the Apollo Group, Inc., acquired the naming rights to the stadium in 2006. The deal has an average annual value of $7.72 million and is set to expire in 2025. However, the University of Phoenix has decided to end its sponsorship deal with the Arizona Cardinals early. Now, the Arizona Cardinals are looking for a new naming-rights partner for their Glendale stadium. The University of Phoenix was expected to pay the team $154.5 million over the span of the 20 years, an average of $7.72 million annually. A new deal could double those annual payments to the team. Until a new sponsor is found, the stadium will remain the University of Phoenix Stadium.

UPDATE: The NFL owners awarded the Atlanta Falcons the rights to host Super Bowl LIII at the new Mercedes-Benz Stadium in 2019.

Plans are in the early stages to convert the Georgia Dome into parking on game days for the Atlanta Falcons and the Atlanta United FC, a luxury hotel, and green space to serve as a community park. The Mercedes-Benz Stadium officially opened on August 26, 2017. The Atlanta Falcons have over $900 million worth of sponsorship commitments for the new Mercedes-Benz Stadium. The capacity of the Falcons' new stadium is set at 75,000.

The NCAA College Football National Championship took place at the Mercedes-Benz Stadium on January 8, 2018. The Alabama Crimson Tide were victorious over the Georgia Bulldogs with a final score of 26-23.

The Mercedes-Benz Stadium will be host to the Major League Soccer All-Star Game on August 1, 2018, as well as hosting different small events throughout the week before the All-Star Game.

The Mercedes-Benz Stadium is set to host the Men's College Basketball Final Four in 2020.

Bill Hancock, the Executive Director of College Football Playoffs, announced that a new contract is in place for the Mercedes-Benz Stadium to host the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl through the 2025-26 football season.

NAMING RIGHTS: The Falcons struck a deal with Mercedes-Benz USA for naming rights to the new Falcon stadium scheduled to open in 2017. The deal is for twenty-seven years; two years of construction and twenty-five years once the stadium opens. Terms of the deal are undisclosed, but it is expected the deal is for at least $12 million per year. Mercedes-Benz also has a sponsorship agreement with the Superdome, home of the New Orleans Saints.

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 87%

Facility Financing: The State of Maryland paid $200 million, including $86 million in tax-exempt revenue bonds. The Ravens contributed $5 million and will contribute an additional $24 million over the thirty-year lease.

Facility Website

Twitter: N/A

NAMING RIGHTS: In May 2003, M&T Bank reached an agreement with the Ravens that would pay an average of $5.27 million per year for the next fifteen years. The deal included two 28×130-foot M&T Bank signs built on the north and south ends of the stadium, and two smaller signs facing east and west. The deal was valued at $79 million and was set to expire in 2017. A new ten-year extension was agreed upon in May 2014. The new extension is valued at $60 million and extends through 2027.

Stadium: New Era Field

Date Built: 1973

Facility Cost ($/Mil): $22

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 100%

Facility Financing: The stadium added more seats prior to the 1995 season and completed a $63 million renovation prior to the 1999 season. Renovation financing included $11 million per year for five years, which comes from additional luxury and club seat fees. The Bills received $18 million over six years from the State as working capital and a $2.9 million break in rent payments. During the Summer of 2014, the stadium underwent a $130 million renovation, which included new score boards; high definition broadcast for TV; improved handicap accessibilities; and renovated concessions, bathrooms, and player locker rooms. Working together to fund the renovations, Erie County contributed $41 million, New York State contributed $54 million, and the Buffalo Bills contributed $35 million.

Facility Website

Twitter: N/A

UPDATE:

A renovation of the Premium areas of New Era Field is currently taking place in the off-season and should be completed before the 2018-19 football season begins. The goals of this renovation are to improve the traffic flow in the clubs and allow for a more efficient way for club seat members to gather with family and friends while still enjoying the amenities provided by the indoor seating area.

May 2018 marked Tailgate Guys as the official tailgate provider for the Buffalo Bills' home games in the upcoming season.

NAMING RIGHTS: The stadium, originally named Rich Stadium, was renamed in 1998 for former Bills owner, Ralph Wilson Sr., at the request of former New York Governor George Pataki. The stadium was again renamed in August 2016, now New Era Field. The deal is worth an estimated $40 million for the remaining 7 years of the team's current lease, terms beyond 2022 remain subject to negotiation. After 2022, New Era Cap Company retains the right of first refusal to keep its name on the stadium, or if there is a new stadium New Era Cap Company also has the naming rights of first refusal.

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 0%

Facility Financing: The stadium was financed by private investors and sales of permanent seat licenses that qualified buyers for season tickets. The City of Charlotte donated the land for the stadium, which is valued at close to $50 million. The City also made more than $10 million in public infrastructure improvements.

Facility Website

Twitter: N/A

UPDATE: The University of North Carolina and the University of South Carolina are scheduled to compete against each other at Bank of America Stadium in 2019 and 2023. West Virginia and Tennessee will meet for the first time on September 1, 2018.

Bank of America Stadium is also the site of the annual Belk Bowl, which features football teams from the ACC and the SEC. The Dr. Pepper ACC football championship game will be played at the Bank of America Stadium each year through 2019.

NAMING RIGHTS: In 2004, Bank of America purchased the naming rights to the stadium, now known as Bank of America Stadium. The twenty-year agreement is worth $140 million and runs through the 2024 season.

Stadium: Soldier Field (Renovated in 2003)

Date Built: 1924

Facility Cost ($/Mil): $13

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 62%

Facility Financing: The stadium opened with 45,000 seats. Five years after opening, the stadium was expanded to 100,000 seats. In 1926, in front of 110,000 fans, Soldier Field was dedicated to the soldiers who fought in WWI. To commemorate Soldier Field's dedication, the Army football team played against the Navy football team; the match ended in a 21-21 tie. The stadium was reconstructed in 1979 by the Chicago Park District to add various amenities and skyboxes. A $660 million renovation was completed in 2003. The financing for the renovation came mostly from taxpayer dollars, with the Bears and the NFL contributing a combined $250 million.

Facility Website

Twitter: @SoldierField

UPDATE: In August 2017, Soldier Field hosted the MLS All-Star Game. The game was broadcasted in more than 170 countries worldwide.

NAMING RIGHTS: Soldier Field is named in memorial to American Soldiers, and in 2001, when the Bears negotiated the stadium deal with the City, the team was given the right to sell the naming rights. After the events of September 11, 2001, the issue of renaming Soldier Field was put on hold. In April 2015, PNC Bank and the Chicago Bears announced a naming-rights deal involving Soldier Field suites. The financials of the deal were not disclosed, but sources familiar with the deal say it is worth $25 million to $35 million for five to ten years.

Facility Cost ($/Mil): $453

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 89%

Facility Financing: The stadium was publicly financed through a $322.2 million bond issue, $30 million from the State, and investment earnings of $22.6 million from a construction fund. The team contributed $50 million, which included revenues from personal seat licenses, a ticket surcharge, and nine years of rent payments.

Facility Website

Twitter: N/A

UPDATE:

For the first time since 2008, Paul Brown Stadium will be hosting the opening game for high school football. On August 24, 2018, St. Xavier and Lakota West will start their seasons at Paul Brown Stadium.

NAMING RIGHTS: In April 2008, Hamilton County Commissioner, Todd Portune, suggested selling the naming rights to Paul Brown Stadium to decrease the county's construction debt on the venue. It is one of many suggestions Portune has made in the past few years to increase stadium-related revenue. According to a Cincinnati Enquirer report, the Bengals would receive seventy percent of the revenue stream from a corporate sponsor, while the remaining thirty percent would go to Hamilton County. There has been no agreement as of July 2017.

Facility Website

Twitter: @FEStadium

UPDATE: In addition to the donations by Jimmy and Dee Haslam to renovate high school football fields, FirstEnergy Stadium will also host high school football games. On October 26, 2018, the Saint Ignatius Wildcats will take on the St. Edward Eagles at the FirstEnergy Stadium.

NAMING RIGHTS: In January 2013, the Browns and FirstEnergy announced that they entered a stadium naming rights deal to rename Cleveland Browns Stadium to FirstEnergy Stadium. As part of the naming rights agreement, FirstEnergy became the official energy partner of the Cleveland Browns and received interior and exterior stadium signage, use of Browns trademarks, and access to sponsorship opportunities at events and through various media platforms. The Akron Beacon Journal reported that FirstEnergy is paying $102 million over seventeen years for the naming rights.

Stadium: AT&T Stadium

Date Built: 2009

Facility Cost ($/Mil): $1,150

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 30%

Facility Financing: The Cowboys contributed $800 million. The Cowboys share came from $113 million in private bonds that will be repaid with a 10% ticket tax and $3 parking fee, a $76 million loan from the NFL, $348 million in a private bond offering from Bank of America Securities, and a $261-million contribution from owner Jerry Jones. The City of Arlington contributed $325 million, raised by a voter approved 0.5% increase in the sales tax, 2% increase in the hotel occupancy tax, and a 5% increase in the car rental tax. Finally, Tarrant County contributed $25 million.

Facility Website

Twitter: @ATTStadium

UPDATE: The stadium hosts the annual Advocare Classic. Florida and Michigan will play in the 2017 Classic, LSU and Miami will play in the 2018 Classic, and Auburn and Oregon will play in the 2019 Classic.

The City of Arlington is on track to pay off AT&T Stadium's debt faster than originally expected. The bonds are set to mature in 2035 but are currently on track to be paid off in 2028. Based on revenue trends, the bonds could be paid off as soon as 2021.

AT&T Stadium hosted The American, the world's richest one-day rodeo. Cowboys competed for a $2 million purse on February 25, 2018.

Beginning in 2016, all University Interscholastic League championship games have been played at AT&T Stadium.

NAMING RIGHTS: The Cowboys agreed to rename the stadium AT&T Stadium for $18 million per year. The length of the contract was not revealed; however, the value of the deal is reportedly somewhere near $100 million.

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 73%

Facility Financing: The team contributed $90 million, while a 0.1% sales tax on retail sales financed the remainder of the stadium. The new stadium's cost was capped at $364 million and the taxpayers' share was capped at $266 million.

Facility Website

Twitter: @SportsAuthField

UPDATE: Broncos Field at Mile High will be providing a new locker service to fans as a replacement for the bag-check system that has been used for the last two years. There will be over 1,000 lockers available to rent for a $5 fee. These lockers are rented on a first-come first-serve basis and will be available for all major events at the stadium. Fans are to be reminded that the quickest way to enter the stadium will still be to not bring in a bag.

NAMING RIGHTS: Sports Authority, Inc. paid $60 million for a ten-year deal that will expire in 2021. However, following Sports Authority, Inc. filing for bankruptcy, Hilco Streambank was retained to sell Sports Authority, Inc.'s intellectual property assets. This includes the naming rights to Mile High Stadium. Hilco Streambank set a deadline of July 19, 2016, to submit offers to acquire the naming rights. The Broncos had the highest bid to assume the contract for naming rights to Sports Authority Stadium, which the U.S. Bankruptcy Court granted in November. The team is still looking for a sponsor after the liquidation of Sports Authority, Inc.

Percentage of Stadium Publicly Financed: 100% (57% of renovation)

Facility Financing: Original construction cost shared by the City and the team. The stadium was expanded seven times between 1961 and 2001, all paid for by the team. In 2001, a $295 million renovation began and was completed in time for the 2003 season, making Lambeau Field one of the premier facilities in the NFL. Public funding for the renovation totaled $169 million through a 0.5% sales tax. Private funding totaled $126 million and came from seat licenses ($92.5 million), public stock offering ($20.5 million), and a loan from the NFL ($13 million).

Facility Website

Twitter: @LambeauField

UPDATE: In March of 2018, the playing surface of Lambeau Field was torn up and will be replaced with a natural grass surface. The irrigation system, the heating system, and the rubber apron around the field will be replaced as well. In May of 2018, new sod was installed. Forty-three miles of tubing were installed to heat the field's playing surface. All of these changes are underground and were completed by the annual Packers Family Night.

NAMING RIGHTS: On June 3, 2003, the Green Bay City Council gave its approval for the Green Bay/Brown County Professional Football Stadium District and the Green Bay Packers to assist the City in pursuing a naming rights agreement for the stadium. In 2015, Packers President Mark Murphy stated the naming rights to the stadium will not be sold.

UPDATE: The 2017 AdvoCare Texas Kickoff game was relocated from NRG Stadium due to the catastrophe that Hurricane Harvey caused, however, NRG Stadium will continue to host the AdvoCare Texas Kickoff. This year's game will take place on September 1, 2018, between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Ole Miss Rebels.

The Southwestern Athletic Conference, SWAC, played its last championship game at NRG Stadium on December 2, 2017.

During the 2018 offseason, renovations are being made to the cafeteria and offices. The goal of these renovations is to create a more effective and efficient workspace for business and football operations. The updates also are to keep the facility current with other NFL facilities.

NAMING RIGHTS: In 2002, Reliant Energy bought the naming rights to the stadium for more than $300 million. The deal is the highest paying naming rights agreement in the NFL. The deal expires in 2032, averages an annual payout of $10 million, and includes Reliant Arena. This deal was amended and the Stadium was renamed NRG Stadium.

UPDATE: In January 2016, the City of Indianapolis agreed to a five-year contract to continue hosting the NFL Scouting Combine. The city has hosted the combine dating back to 1987 and the new deal will keep the Combine in Indianapolis through 2020. The Combine takes place at multiple venues, including Lucas Oil Stadium.

In June 2014, the Big Ten Conference announced that Big Ten Football Championship Games will continue to be played at Lucas Oil Stadium through the 2021 season. The inaugural Big Ten Football Championship Game was held at Lucas Oil Stadium in 2011; the beginning of a five-year deal.

Lucas Oil Stadium will host the NCAA Division I Men's Final Four in 2021.

NAMING RIGHTS: In March 2006, Lucas Oil Products signed a twenty-year, $121.5 million naming rights deal for the Colts' stadium, which expires in 2027. The average annual value is $6.07 million. The Colts have allowed fourteen funding partners for the $750 million stadium. The five to eight year contracts, signed by the funding partners to put their names on gates, corners, suite levels, club lounges, and other real estate, are worth a total of $10-$12 million annually. The combined value of those agreements exceeds Lucas Oil's $121.5 million naming rights deal for the building.

UPDATE: Jacksonville city officials reached a five-year contract extension with the University of Georgia and the University of Florida to continue hosting their annual game at EverBank Field. The deal will run through 2021.

On June 12, 2017, TIAA announced that it acquired EverBank. In February of 2018, information was released stating that EverBank Field would be renamed TIAA Bank Field by the beginning of the 2018-19 NFL season as long as the City of Jacksonville and the Jaguars approved. Both approved and at this time, the facility of the Jacksonville Jaguars is named TIAA Bank Field.

NAMING RIGHTS: EverBank, now TIAA Bank, a privately-owned company, paid $16.6 million for a five-year naming rights deal in 2010, which ended after the 2014 season. The naming rights were renewed for ten years, ending in 2024, and are worth $43 million. In February 2015, US Assure and the Jaguars agreed to make US Assure the official naming partner for the Touchdown Clubs at EverBank Field. UPDATE: In January 2017, the Chargers announced the decision to exercise its option and move the team to Los Angeles. The team was officially rebranded as the Los Angeles Chargers. The Chargers will share a stadium with the Los Angeles Rams in Inglewood, California, scheduled to open in 2020. The Chargers are tenants to the Rams and will pay $1 per year in rent for a twenty-year lease. The Chargers also have four five-year options to extend the lease. Both the Chargers and the Rams each keep their local revenue which includes: tickets, parking, gameday sponsorships, concessions, and advertising. While the Rams owner, Stan Kroenke, will get all non-football revenues. The Chargers will not be responsible for any cost overruns or similar issues with the stadium. Kroenke will own the stadium.

Until the new stadium is complete the Chargers will play in the StubHub Center in Carson, California, the smallest stadium in the league.

The City of Champions Stadium is currently designed to include 275 luxury suites, more than 16,000 premium seats, space for 27,000 standing room patrons, and 70,000 in seating capacity. The stadium will be in the Hollywood Park entertainment district in Inglewood, CA. Also, being built adjacent to the stadium is a 6,000-seat performance venue; up to 890,000-square feet of retail space; up to 300 hotel rooms; 780,000-square-foot of office space; 2,500 residential units; and 25 acres of public parks, playgrounds, and open space.

The stadium is the first part of a multi-phase project on the site. The development plan includes a hotel, retail and offices, a performance venue attached to the stadium, and a residential area.

The opening of the Inglewood stadium was delayed a year, from 2019 to 2020, because of record rainfall in California. The stadium will cost a projected $2.6 billion. Super Bowl LV was slated to be held in the Inglewood stadium, however the NFL voted to move Super Bowl LV to Tampa Bay because 2021 will be during the stadium's inaugural season. However, Los Angeles will host Super Bowl LVI in 2022.

Los Angeles will host the 2028 Olympics.

NAMING RIGHTS: No deal for the stadium naming rights has been made at this time. The money for naming rights will go into Stadco L.A. LLC, a Kroenke-controlled entity that will finance the stadium. For naming rights each team will get an 18.75% cut with the remainder going towards construction.

UPDATE: The Rams will play at L.A. Memorial Stadium (home of U.S.C.) for the next three years until City of Champions Stadium is built. All revenues paid to U.S.C. for use of the stadium will go toward the $270 million renovation of L.A. Memorial Stadium.

The City of Champions Stadium is currently designed to include 275 luxury suites, more than 16,000 premium seats, space for 27,000 standing room patrons, and 70,000 in seating capacity. The stadium will be in the Hollywood Park entertainment district in Inglewood, CA. Also, being built adjacent to the stadium is a 6,000-seat performance venue; up to 890,000-square feet of retail space; up to 300 hotel rooms; 780,000-square-feet of office space; 2,500 residential units; and 25 acres of public parks, playgrounds, and open space.

The stadium is the first part of a multi-phase project on the site. The development plan includes a hotel, retail and offices, a performance venue attached to the stadium, and a residential area.

The opening of the Inglewood stadium was delayed a year, from 2019 to 2020, because of record rainfall in California. The stadium will cost a projected $2.6 billion. Super Bowl LV was slated to be held in the Inglewood stadium, however the NFL voted to move Super Bowl LV to Tampa Bay because 2021 will be during the stadium's inaugural season. However, Los Angeles will host Super Bowl LVI in 2022.

The Chargers announced the decision to exercise its option and move the team to Los Angeles. The team was officially rebranded as the Los Angeles Chargers. The Rams will share the stadium with the L.A. Chargers at least until 2020. The Chargers are tenants to the Rams and will pay $1 per year in rent for a twenty-year lease. Both the Chargers and the Rams each keep their local revenue which includes: tickets, parking, gameday sponsorships, concessions, and advertising. While the Rams owner, Stan Kroenke, will get all non-football revenues.

In March 2016, the Rams finalized a deal to build a temporary training facility at Cal Lutheran in Thousand Oaks. The Rams will train there for at least three years and will pay to build the facilities.

Los Angeles will host the 2028 Olympics.
