The 2009 issues of For The Record will include reports and perspectives from current and former leaders of the NSLI. The first perspective in this issue is from NSLI founder Martin Greenberg (L’71), the NSLI’s Director from 1992-1998 and former chair of the NSLI’s Board of Directors. Professor Greenberg continues to teach two sports law courses at the Law School. The second perspective is from William Miller (L’96), NSLI consultant from 1993-1996, and founding member and first chair of the NSLI’s Alumni Board (now the Sports Law Alumni Association).

Martin Greenberg

The Creation of the National Sports Law Institute

By Martin Greenberg, Greenberg & Hoeschen, Member, Southeast Wisconsin Professional Baseball Park District, and Member, National Sports Law Institute Board of Advisors

After receiving an exceptional legal education at Marquette University Law School (Marquette), I joined the law firm of Shea, Hoyt, Greene, Randall & Meissner in 1971. In the fall of 1973, I was approached by Dean Robert Boden to become a Lecturer in Law at Marquette, which eventually became an assistant professorship during which I taught Property I, Property II and Advanced Real Estate Transactions.

While real estate was my first love, Marquette basketball was closely behind. The cherished friendships and memories of my relationship with Al McGuire, Rick Majerus, and Hank Raymonds, and numerous players will always be a highlight of my life. Sports and the law then was a natural.

In 1978 I attended a conference in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, to learn about the regulation of sports agents. Upon my return from the conference, I visited with Dean Boden and explained that sports law would become a burgeoning specialty – an area of interest not only to law students but to lawyers -- and that Marquette should get ahead of the game by offering a sports law course.

Marquette’s first sports law course was entitled “Negotiating and Drafting of Personal Service Contracts,” which I proposed in 1978 and taught for the first time in spring of 1979. The faculty at that time would not approve a course entitled Sports Law. By 1981 the title of the course was shortened to “Personal Service Contracts.”

Marquette and Milwaukee was the perfect place for the development of a specialized center for the study of sports law. Milwaukee is a “great sports town,” enriched not only by its professional teams – the Milwaukee Brewers, Milwaukee Bucks, Milwaukee Admirals, and Green Bay Packers – but by a tradition of excellence in college athletics. By the ‘80s, lawyers off the field had become just as important as coaches and managers on the field, and training law students and lawyers in the law of sports became the next logical step.

I took the idea of a sports law institute to my dear friends, Deans Frank DeGuire and Chuck Mentkowski. I recommended a sports law institute that would: 1) create specialty courses in sports law; 2) make Marquette a center for the advancement of sports law education and ethics in sports; 3) make Marquette a sports law resource center for attorneys, journalists, and academics; 4) create a continuing Law Review of high academic quality and 5) sponsor sports law conferences; and 6) create community outreach programs.

In order to create a sports law institute, capital was required. Through the generosity of the Green Bay Packers, Milwaukee Brewers, Milwaukee Bucks and Milwaukee Admirals, $500,000 was pledged to fund an Institute over a four-year period. In 1992, Miller Brewing Company became another sponsor.

The National Sports Law Institute was founded on February 15, 1989, with a press conference announcing its creation. Soon after, an Advisory Board was created including such notable members of the sports community as Al McGuire, Coach; Bud Selig, former owner of the Milwaukee Brewers and current MLB Commissioner; Judy Sweet, former NCAA Senior Vice President; Jerry Reinsdorf, Chicago Bulls and White Sox owner; Stanley H. Kasten, former President of the Atlanta Hawks and Atlanta Braves; Susan O’Malley, former president of the Washington Bullets; Glenn Rivers, former Marquette player and current Boston Celtics coach; Gary Bettman, Commissioner of the National Hockey League; and Richard Berthelsen, legal counsel for the National Football League Players Association.

Attorney John Wendel served as the initial NSLI Director, a position I assumed on August 15, 1992 and served in until November of 1998.

The first issue of the Marquette Sports Law Journal was published in the fall of 1990 and has been published on a regular basis ever since.

During my Directorship the Institute:

(1) Produced a Risk Management Program for Milwaukee high schools entitled Reduce Your Risk;

(3) Helped to create the Wisconsin Sports Authority, a quasi-public sports organization which marketed Wisconsin sports assets and organized amateur and professional sporting events in the state of Wisconsin;

(4) Created the Master of the Game Award which is presented to a person who has made significant contributions to the sports industry and who exemplifies the highest levels of professionalism. During my tenure the Master of the Game Award was given to Al McGuire in 1992, Bart Starr in 1994, Hank Aaron in 1995, and Bob Harlan in 1997;

(5) Created the Sports Business Forum to address the economic issues of the business of sports. The inaugural meeting occurred on January 10, 1991, featuring Jerry Reinsdorf, owner of the Chicago Bulls and White Sox. Other guests included Dick Schultz, former NCAA Executive Director; Richard Berthelsen, general counsel of the National Football League Players Association; Sal Bando, former general manager of the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club; Bob Harlan, former president & CEO of the Green Bay Packers; Bud Selig, then president & CEO of the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club; and Brian Burke, former Vice President for the National Hockey League;

(6) Created and offered more sports law courses than any law school in the country. Those courses included: The Law of Amateur Athletics; Contemporary Issues in Sports Law and Sports Industry Contracts and Negotiations;

(7) Sponsored national conferences including Sports Dollars and Cents in Milwaukee, October 22-24, 1992; and in Los Angeles, October 28-30, 1993; and Sports Venues, Revenues and Values, 1994-1996 in Milwaukee, on topics relating to the sports facility boom.

Without the support of Frank DeGuire and Chuck Mentkowski, this would not have been a possibility. Without the hard work of Jim Gray, Paul Anderson, Bill Miller, and others, the substance of this enterprise would not be what it is today.

And finally, without the generosity of Bud Selig, Herb Kohl, Jane and Lloyd Pettit, Bob Harlan, and Bill Schmus, along with the organizations that they represent, the idea to establish a sports law institute would never have had the ability to develop and to come to fruition.

I am very proud that the National Sports Law Institute is now celebrating its 20th anniversary.

Celebrating 20 Years (1989-2009)
The first time I heard of the concept of sports law and the National Sports Law Institute of Marquette University Law School was in the early 1990s. The idea of combining my two great passions for the law and sports into a potential career had great appeal for me and I was sure that Marquette was where I wanted to go for law school.

In those pre-Internet days, I quickly sent off a request for information about Marquette Law School and the sports law program. Surprisingly, the response I received from the admissions department was rather cold, with a specific warning not to come to Marquette Law School for the Sports Law program. In light of this, I decided to reopen my law school search. In the end, I still made the decision to attend Marquette despite the apparent lack of enthusiasm for the sports law program from the admissions department.

As I went through my first year of law school, I discovered that the lack of enthusiasm for the sports law program was shared by others at MULS. The NSLI offices were in a distant location on 17th Street, and the sports law program had a very small presence in the law school. Many faculty members and administrators that I dealt with seemingly had little need or regard for the program.

When I started my second year at Marquette, professor Marty Greenberg began the first professional sports law class of the semester by stating that it was highly unlikely that we would get a job in sports. At that point, it is safe to say that I was definitely questioning my decision to pursue a legal education at MULS.

However, as my second year went forward, I was able to see a different side of the NSLI and the Sports Law program.

- At the October 1995 Sports Venues, Revenues and Values Conference, I was able to hear noted speakers and scholars from around the world talk about the interaction between sports, the law and finance and why these subjects were so important for both industries and our society going forward.
- At the aforementioned conference and other similar events, I was able to meet many important industry people and hear how they considered the NSLI to be one of the best sports law programs in the world. They also discussed how they viewed it as a necessary and vital resource for both the sports industry and the legal profession. I was fortunate that many of these individuals later became great friends and contacts that have helped me throughout my career.
- I was also able to start working on various NSLI publications including the Marquette Sports Law Journal, a variety of newsletters, and research that would eventually start the Stadium Game book series.
- I started to meet professors and administrators who clearly valued the Sports Law program and realized the value it provided to the MULS community.
- Finally, I was able to gain valuable industry experience by working for the NSLI as a research assistant and eventually securing an internship with the Milwaukee Brewers, which would greatly help to advance my future sports law career.
By the time I left Marquette Law School in 1996, those of us involved in the Sports Law program felt like we were a small, valuable (and often underappreciated) niche in the MULS community. We often discussed how we felt the program was an underutilized asset of the law school and marveled at the seeming disconnect between the value the sports and legal industries placed on the NSLI versus that placed on it by the MULS community.

Since my departure from Marquette, I have been fortunate enough to have the opportunity to stay connected with the Sports Law program and have marveled at the changes that have taken place since I left. Thanks to the vision and leadership of Deans Howard Eisenberg and Joseph Kearney, the MULS community has seemingly fully embraced the Sports Law program and properly valued it for the asset that it is. With ten classes now being offered, gone are the days of students with an interest in sports law like myself having to search for classes that would allow us to do papers or projects that would give us the additional sports law work that we craved. The development of a sport law moot court program that allows students to hone their skills in the context of a subject that is an intellectual passion for them is also a huge advance. Finally, the efforts of Paul Anderson to start a Sport Law Alumni Association in the late-1990s created a sense of lifelong community that allows all of us who go through the program to maintain a connection with the program and the law school as a whole.

While many are stunned by the explosive growth of the Sports Law program over the past fifteen years, the reality is that many of the key foundation elements were already in place. Sure, some names have changed and the scope might be bigger. But, the underlying structure was already there and people such as Marty Greenberg, Charles Mentkowski, and Frank DeGuire are to be commended for their initial vision.

- The NSLI continues to stage outstanding conferences and speaker events with world-renowned speakers that are welcomed by the industry and envied by other schools. These events provide the opportunity for students to advance their knowledge and future career aspirations by meeting top industry personnel.
- While the names and technology might have changed, the NSLI continues to be at the cutting edge in terms of publications and research for the sports law field.
- Students continue to gain valuable experience and contacts through their work for the NSLI and through a variety of high-profile internships both in the Milwaukee area and around the world.
- Finally, the students who go through the program continue to develop into top-notch young attorneys who just happen to have an interest in sports. Because of the broad-based education we received through our involvement with the Sports Law program, our group from the early to mid-1990s would go on to experience varied, yet significant levels of success in the legal and sports professions. The various students I have had the opportunity to meet and work with (who are too numerous to mention) over the past thirteen years have continued that high level of varied, yet significant success in their chosen careers. I have no doubt that future classes will do the same.

In closing, the NSLI and the Sports Law program have enjoyed a great two decades. Thanks to the ongoing leadership of Matt Mitten and the ongoing dedication, skill, and passion of Paul Anderson, the Marquette Sports Law program has clearly distanced itself from its competition to become the premier program of its type in the world. As both the law school and the program begin new chapters in 2010, I and my fellow alumni look forward to seeing what the next twenty years has in store for both.
Events

Founded in 1989, the National Sports Law Institute (NSLI) is affiliated with Marquette’s Sports Law program. Its mission is to be the leading national educational and research institute for the study of legal, ethical, and business issues affecting amateur and professional sports from both an academic and practical perspective. During 2009, each issue of For The Record will provide a retrospective on various areas the NSLI has focused on for the past 20 years.

Beginning with the first lecture hosted by the NSLI — a discussion of Representing Professional Teams with Wendy Selig, who was then general counsel of the Milwaukee Brewers, on November 15, 1990 – the NSLI has hosted numerous events focusing on current sports law and business issues.

CONFERENCES

Since its founding the NSLI has hosted a fall sports law conference sixteen times. The first conference was held in Milwaukee in October 1992. Co-sponsored by Arthur Andersen, and held again in October of 1993, the Sports Dollars & Sense conferences discussed various issues directly affecting professional athletes, player agents, team attorneys, college and university attorneys, NCAA career counseling program advisors, and sports law professors.

From 1994-1996 the NSLI hosted a series of conferences on Sports Venues, Revenues & Values, all co-sponsored by Deloitte & Touche. These conferences addressed stadium and arena leases from a legal, economic and public policy perspective. Research and materials collected for these conferences led to the publication of the first edition of The Stadium Game book.

In November of 1998, the NSLI hosted a conference on Sports Law in the 21st Century with the Law and Sports Section of the American Association of Law Schools. The conference presented the leading scholars in the sports law field who discussed future trends.

In September of 2000, the NSLI hosted its fourth sports facility conference, Sports Facilities & Development. Panelists discussed various issues surrounding the sports facility development process from the economic ramifications to new innovations and technologies.

In 2001 and 2002 the NSLI hosted two conferences on Intellectual Property Issues in Sports. The first focused on Trademarks, Unfair Competition, and Athletes Publicity Rights, while the second addressed How Contemporary Intellectual Property Law Has Affected the Modern Sports Industry. The law firm of Foley & Lardner co-sponsored both of these conferences and has sponsored all NSLI conferences since 2001.
In September of 2003, the NSLI hosted its first international sports law conference with the International Association of Sports Law that attracted speakers and attendees from six continents. Another conference with an international focus followed in October of 2004 when the NSLI hosted The Evolving Nature of Intercollegiate and Olympic Athletics in the 21st Century.

Most recently, on October 24, 2008, the NSLI hosted a conference on Professional Sports: Current Issues and Their Future Implications. Conference sponsors included the law firms of Foley & Lardner, LLP and Greenberg & Hoeschen, LLC, and the Sports & Entertainment Law Section of the State Bar of Wisconsin. The conference featured the following panels:

Panel #1: Acquisition, Sale, and Valuation of Sports Franchises

Moderator: Robert Leib, Managing Director, Dornoch Capital Advisors, LLC, President/CEO, Leib Advisors, LLC, and member, NSLI Board of Advisors, Mequon, WI

Panelists and topics:

- Michael Cramer, Clinical Assistant Professor, Preston Robert Tisch Center for Hospitality, Tourism and Sports Management, School of Continuing and Professional Studies, New York University, New York, NY, and member, NSLI Board of Advisors, “Valuations, League Rules and Current Economic Conditions...Challenges for the NFL”

- Greg Heller, Senior Vice President & General Counsel, Atlanta Braves, Atlanta, GA, and member, Marquette University Law School Sports Law Alumni Association, “Due Diligence Issues in Team Sales”

- Martin Greenberg, Managing Partner, Greenberg & Hoeschen, LLC, Milwaukee, WI, member, Southeast Wisconsin Professional Baseball Park District, chair, Wisconsin Sports Development Corporation, and member, NSLI Board of Advisors, “No MLS in Milwaukee - At Least for Now”

- Keiji Kawai, Doctor of Laws, Associate Professor, Doshisha University, Japan, Visiting Researcher at the University of Massachusetts and Amherst College, “Labor Relations in Nippon Professional Baseball”

The NSLI’s next conference will be held on Friday, October 23rd at Marquette University's Alumni Memorial Union. Panelists will discuss significant legal and business developments in the sports industry from the NSLI's 1989 founding to the present, with predictions about what may happen during the next 5 years until our 25th anniversary. The conference will include panels on Olympic/ international, professional, college, and high school sports as well as a "catch-all" panel that will focus on common legal issues affecting different levels of sports competition (e.g., tort, Title IX). Further information about our 2009 conference will be available soon online at http://law.marquette.edu/jw/events.

SEMINARS/COLLOQUIA

In addition to its annual sports law conferences, the NSLI has hosted several seminars on various topics. The first seminar was held on October 5, 1990, focusing on Professional Sports Contracts. The NSLI has also hosted seminars on Sports Officials and the Law, Jackie Robinson and the Law: Legal Perspectives on the Integration of Professional Baseball, and Insurance Issues in Sports Law, among other topics.
In conjunction with the Sports & Entertainment Law Section of the State Bar of Wisconsin, the NSLI also has hosted several Continuing Legal Education seminars for lawyers focusing on discussions of Ethical Issues in Sports.

In addition, in conjunction with the Law and Sports Section of the American Association of Law Schools, the NSLI hosted a Sports Law Teaching & Scholarship Colloquium in September of 2007. The Colloquium featured sports law professors who discussed current scholarship and the teaching methods used in their respective sports law courses.

SPEAKERS/WORKSHOPS

Over the past 20 years, the NSLI has hosted dozens of individual sports industry speaker who have provided their perspectives on various legal issues. A sampling of the topics covered by individual speakers includes:

- In Black and White: Race and Sports in America
- Sports Marketing & The Law
- Naming Rights: The New Revenue Source for Sports Facilities
- Managing Sports Facilities: The Legal Issues
- The Olinger and Knapp Decisions: A Judicial Perspective
- From Inequality to Opportunity: Keeping the Promises Made to Big-Time Intercollegiate Athletes
- Money Earned and Money Lost: NHL Salary Arbitration; Pro Tennis Doping Sanctions
- Combining the Practice of Law with Player Representation
- Did the Signing of Jackie Robinson Slow Down the Integration of Major League Baseball?
- A Behind the Scenes Look at the Unique Challenges and Rewards of the Quest to Create a Professional Baseball League in the Holy Land

Featured speakers for these events have included Ellis “Skip” Prince, former Vice President of Television and Business Affairs for the National Hockey League; the Honorable Judge Terence Evans, United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit; Professor Richard McLaren, member, Court of Arbitration for Sport; and Attorney Andrew Brandt, former Vice President of Player Finance/General Counsel for the Green Bay Packers; among many other speakers.

Most recently, on April 14, 2009, Marquette University Athletic Director Steve Cottingham spoke to students about the value of a legal education for collegiate athletics administrators and current legal issues facing college athletics administrators.
SPORTS BUSINESS FORUM

From 1991 to 1994, the Sports Business Forum consisted of individuals from the Greater Milwaukee business, sports and educational communities, who met to discuss current issues in sports. Each forum featured a speaker from the sports industry, including:

- Jerry Reinsdorf, owner of the Chicago Bulls and White Sox, The Business of Major League Baseball;
- Dick Schultz, former NCAA Executive Director, Athletics in the 1990s: A Decade of Change;
- Richard Berthelsen, general counsel of the National Football League Players Association, Freedom in the National Football League;
- Sal Bando, former general manager of the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club, The Economics of Major League Baseball;
- Bob Harlan, former president & CEO of the Green Bay Packers, The Economics of the National Football League;
- Bud Selig, then president & CEO of the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club, Baseball’s Changing Economic Environment; and
- Brian Burke, former Vice President for the National Hockey League, The Economics of the National Hockey League.

SPORTS INDUSTRY CAREER EVENTS

In 1998, the NSLI hosted the first of its Annual Sports Law Alumni Career Panels. These panels bring Sports Law program alumni back to Marquette University Law School to discuss their careers and to advise current Sports Law students. On March 26, 2009, the NSLI and Sports Law Alumni Association hosted its eleventh annual Alumni Career Panel featuring Shawn Eichorst (L’95), Executive Associate Athletic Director, University of Wisconsin, Madison, WI; William Miller (L’96), Assistant Professor, University of Wisconsin - Parkside, Kenosha, WI; Mike Sneathern (L’02), Associate Counsel, Milwaukee Bucks, Milwaukee, WI; and Jenni Spies (L’06), Assistant District Attorney, Milwaukee County District Attorney's Office, Milwaukee, WI.

Periodically, the NSLI hosts other events providing career guidance for Sports Law students and featuring alumni or other individuals from the sports industry. These events often focus on one aspect of the sports industry (i.e. Careers in Collegiate Athletics with Keith Miller (L’01), Assistant Athletic Director - Compliance, Baylor University, Waco, TX, on September 30, 2004). In addition, since 2001, the NSLI has invited participants in its annual fall conference to speak to students about careers in the sports industry the afternoon before the conference begins. On Thursday, October 22, 2009, the NSLI will host a career panel featuring female alumni who currently work in the sports industry.

CURRENT ISSUES IN SPORTS LAW

Starting in 2002, Professor Paul Anderson, the Associate Director of the National Sports Law Institute, has presented a discussion of current legal issues impacting the sports industry during the spring semester, which focuses on novel and interesting issues that have developed in the sports industry over the past calendar year. Each presentation is specifically designed for Marquette Sports Law program students and covers current issues at the high school, college, professional, and international level of sports participation.

During his most recent Current Issues in Sports Law presentation on February 12, 2009, Professor Anderson discussed Wakefield v. WIAA, a recent Wisconsin case holding that the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association is a state actor; Bassett v. NCAA, a recent federal case in which a coach unsuccessfully sued the NCAA claiming that sanctions brought against him and the University of Kentucky violated federal antitrust laws; the Report to the Board of Governors of the NBA (Oct. 1, 2008) which reviewed the NBA’s officiating crews as a result of the Tim Donaghy scandal; and the revisions to the World Anti-doping Code that became effective in 2009; among other current issues.

SPORTS LAW STUDENT/ALUMNI NETWORKING LUNCHES

Since 2006, the NSLI has invited alumni to return to Marquette University Law School each semester to talk to Sports Law program students in Sports Law Student/Alumni Networking lunches. These lunches provide small groups of students with an informal setting in which the alumni discuss their participation in the Sports Law program and how it impacted their future careers. Most recently, on January 23, 2009, the NSLI hosted a networking lunch for eight students, featuring Sports Attorney and Adjunct Assistant Professor of Law Brad Hoeschen (L’01), Greenberg & Hoeschen, LLC, and Attorney Nick DeSiato (L’08), Law Clerk, Milwaukee County Circuit Court. Both Brad and Nick are members of the National Sports Law Institute’s Sports Law Alumni Association.

BANQUETS / TRIBUTES / RECEPTIONS

During the past two decades the NSLI has hosted numerous events to recognize Marquette students and alumni, individuals who have positively impacted the Sports Law program at Marquette, and other sports industry lawyers and professionals.

From 1993-1997 the NSLI annually hosted what was known as the Marquette Sports Law Journal awards dinner, which recognized students at Marquette for their service to the Institute and Sports Law Journal. By 1998, this annual event became the NSLI’s Annual Sports Law Awards Banquet, honoring the graduating Marquette University Law School students who have participated in the Sports Law program.

Since 2005, the NSLI has hosted a reception for graduating students who have completed the requirements for the NSLI’s Sports Law Certificate. At the end of 2009, 155 students will have earned the Sports Law Certificate.
The NSLI has also hosted two large events in honor of individuals who supported the development of the NSLI during its formative years. On May 6, 1996, the NSLI hosted a tribute dinner for former Marquette University President, Reverend Albert DiUlio, S.J., in recognition of his tremendous support of the Institute during his presidency. In addition, on September 26, 1996, the NSLI held a dinner in honor of Professor Emeritus Charles Mentkowski, the Associate Dean of Marquette University Law School when the NSLI was created in 1989, and the first chair of the NSLI’s Board of Advisors.

SOCIAL EVENTS

With the assistance of Marquette’s student Sports Law Society and the Sports Law Alumni Association, the NSLI has hosted or sponsored many different social events, including visits to Milwaukee Brewers and Bucks games, tours of sports facilities, and trips to sports law conferences. Since 2001, each fall the NSLI hosts a Welcome Mixer where current students, alums, and sports law faculty, welcome newly enrolled students interested in the Sports Law program at Marquette. In addition, each fall since 2002 the Sports Law Society has hosted an annual student/faculty/alumni golf outing in Milwaukee. Proceeds from the outing support scholarship funds for Sports Law program students. The next golf outing will be held Saturday, September 19, 2009, at Silver Spring Country Club.

20TH ANNIVERSARY EVENTS

To begin the celebration of the NSLI’s twenty year anniversary the NSLI and Marquette’s Sports Law Society hosted a celebration titled 20 Years of Sports Law at Marquette: the Sports Law Society Celebrates 100 members on April 2, 2009. This event recognized the incredible service and support that the student Sports Law Society provides to the NSLI and Sports Law program and featured NSLI Director Matt Mitten, former NSLI Director and founder Martin Greenberg, NSLI Associate Director Paul Anderson, and panels of students from each current law school class. The NSLI will sponsor several other events during 2009 to commemorate its 20th Anniversary, including a panel of Marquette University Law School alums who will discuss the growth of the NSLI and Sports Law program. Details of this and other events will be available soon.
