Sun Devil Stadium	1958	$1	100%	Stadium for Arizona State University football became host to the Cardinals in 1988. The stadium has been renovated 4 times since 1976. In 1989, $11 M was spent to modernize the stadium and add luxury skyboxes. Bonds were issued and paid off with skybox revenue.
TBA	2005	$331	71%	Team will pay $85 M. Remaining portion from hotel and car rental tax increase, income tax money from player salaries, and $10 M from the Fiesta Bowl.
UPDATE
House Bill 2177, that would allow Indian tribes to host Arizona Cardinals stadium, is expected to be approved by the Legislature sometime in May. Rep. Steve May, the bills sponsor, says he has more than the 31 votes needed for the proposal in the House. The bill then would move to Gov. Jane Hull for final approval. The proposal includes a September 12 deadline for the sports authority to pick a stadium site or have the project go back to voters.

PSINet Stadium at Camden Yards	1998	$229	87%	State of Maryland paid $200 M, including $86 M in tax-exempt revenue bonds. The Ravens contributed $5 M from PSL's and $24 M over the 30-year lease. In addition, PSINet purchased the naming rights for $105 M over 20 years.

UPDATE

PSINet has reached agreement with the Ravens to terminate its $105 million stadium naming-rights deal. Although PSINet paid only $29 million of the total value of the contract, the team will give the company a $5.9 million refund following the premature termination of the deal. The agreement leaves the Ravens free to seek a new naming-rights partner for their stadium.

Soldier Field	1924	$10	100%	Stadium opened with 45,000 seats. It was expanded to 100,000 seats and dedicated to soldiers in WWI in 1926. It was reconstructed in 1979 by the Chicago Park District to add various amenities and boxes. Capacity is now smaller.

UPDATE

In May of 2002, the Illinois Supreme Court agreed to consider an appeal by opponents of the rebuilding of Soldier Field. However, if the stadium continues as planned, the lease for the new Soldier Field will mean an additional $20 million a year in revenue for the team. The Chicago Park District will receive $5.7 million a year in rent, which is the highest in the National Football League. The total deal will mean $21 million a year for the Park District in rent, ancillary sources including parking, concessions, and concerts. The team will also receive $3.5 million a year from the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority.

Pontiac Silverdome	1979	$55.7	100%	City of Pontiac bond issue. Stadium financed through $25 M sold by the authority. $16 M in general obligation bonds were sold by the City, $7 M, 15-year installment loan, and a state subsidy of $800 K per year.
Ford Field	2002	$225	36%	Financing through new tourism excise taxes (2% rental car tax and 1% hotel room tax) used to pay off Wayne County revenue bonds providing $80 M toward construction costs. $45 M will come from the Downtown Development Authority. $70 M contribution from the Lions and $50 M from corporation contributions. Ford Motor Company will pay $40 M in naming rights.

UPDATE

For a $100 fee, parties interested in purchasing the Pontiac Silverdome can buy the password to a Web site containing technical information about the 27-year old stadium and the 127-acre property surrounding it. Real estate experts have estimated the worth of the facility at approximately $85 million if the Dome is raised and mixed-use, including a technology park, is built.

UPDATE
Local civic leaders in Kansas City indicated a new bistate tax election would be sought this fall, although the proposed stadium bill died recently. The tax would be used to fund improvements to both Arrowhead Stadium and Kauffman Stadium (MLB's Royals). Owners of both teams will meet to discuss possibilities including the paring of stadium needs, requiring less tax money. In exchange, the teams would extend their leases for fewer than the 12 years originally promised. Additional possibilities include shifting bistate money proposed for a new Kansas City Wizards soccer stadium to the Royals and Chiefs.

UPDATE

A business group headed by Philip Anschutz revealed plans to build a 64,000-seat stadium across the street from the Staples Center in the hope of luring at least one professional football team to Los Angeles. The group would use the Community Redevelopment Agency to acquire the 19-acre site, possibly issuing $70 to $100 million in bonds. The group also intends to seek a $150 million loan from the league and a promise to stage at least two Super Bowls in the new stadium. In Pasadena, the Rose Bowl has indicated a desire to pursue a NFL team to play in the 80-year old facility. Rose Bowl plans call for a similar expenditure level as the Anschutz deal and would be privately financed. Pasadena officials would also seek a NFL loan of up to $150 million to renovate the existing facility.

The NFL has appointed a high-level study group to investigate Los Angeles and raised the possibility of granting L.A. an expansion team. Commissioner Tagliabue will chair the panel, which also will include the Miami Dolphins' Wayne Huizenga, Cleveland Browns' Carmen Policy, Carolina Panthers' Jerry Richardson, Pittsburgh Steelers' Dan Rooney, and the New England Patriots' Bob Kraft.

With Coliseum officials voting to spend up to $1 million to promote their venue as an NFL site, Anschutz Entertainment Group representatives indicated they are not willing to be drawn into a bidding war and threatened to step aside.

Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome	1982	$102.8	81%	Financed through the sale of $55 M in revenue bonds, a hotel and liquor tax that raised $15.8 M, and a Metro liquor tax that raised $8 M. The City of Minneapolis spent $4 M on the infrastructure costs. The remaining costs were financed with $13 M in interest earned on the bonds and $7 M from the Vikings and Twins for auxiliary facilities.

UPDATE

Red McCombs, owner of the Vikings, has threatened to sell or relocate the franchise after failing to win state backing for a planned new $425-million stadium in Minneapolis. The state legislature has already approved a new $330-million baseball stadium for MLB's Twins, after previously rejecting a proposal for a football stadium to be shared by the Vikings and the University of Minnesota. The Vikings are contracted to play in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome until 2011.

Potential buyers of the Vikings include recently retired Best Buy CEO Richard Schulze, Minnesota Wild ownership group headed by Bob Neagle and Jac Sperling, and Timberwolves owner Glen Taylor. Taylor is also consider a prospect to buy the Twins.

UPDATE

The Saints appointed sports marketing group Envision to sell naming rights to its' stadium. Louisiana state officials hope that the sale of naming rights will help to prevent the Saints from leaving New Orleans. Officials estimate the worth of the naming rights to be between $3 million to $5 million a year. Envision hopes to announce a naming sponsor in time for next year's Super Bowl, which will be played in the Louisiana Superdome on January 27.

Stadium is part of a larger sports complex that includes a horse-race track that generates revenues that go to paying of the bond debt.

UPDATE

The Jets and New York City are considering a plan that would move the NFL team to a new stadium on Manhattan's West Side and bring the Olympics to the Big Apple in one shot. However, they must convince the Olympic Committee within the next few months that their stadium is viable or risk losing out in their bid for the 2012 Summer Games. Without the Olympic Games, the Jets will have to look to another way to finance a new stadium.

Stadium	ETA	Cost (millions)	% Publicly Financed	Facility Financing
Oakland Coliseum	1996	$200-223	100%	The Raiders moved back to Oakland for the 1995 season. The city and county paid about $225 M for improvements to the Coliseum as part of the relocation package. $12.5 M renovation from 1980-1986. $100 M renovation in 1996.

UPDATE

A Los Angeles County Superior Court validated the NFL's claims that the Raiders have violated league bylaws by withholding funds since 1995. If upheld, the ruling could result in the Raiders having to pay the league $10 million or more. Concern over the decision in Los Angeles centers on two issues that were at the heart of litigation between the team and the league: revenues from the sales of personal seat licenses (PSL's) and a $63.9 million "loan" the city and county gave the team in 1995.
